Individuals selected reflect the values of sportsmanship, ethics and integrity through their professional responsibilities and serve as role models for student-athletes and others while coaching a girl's sport. The All American Conference highly suggests that coaches be dressed appropriately for all practices and games, encouraging coaches to wear team apparel or shirt/tie when appropriate for a game or type of practice. These individuals also display a high level of class and professionalism in all they do. They do not use foul language. Following this high standard demonstrates being a strong role model, resulting in student athletes making positive choices and displaying a high level of sportsmanship on and off the court/playing field.
